Cookies

“Cookies” are small bits of text that are either used for the duration of a session (session cookies) or saved on a user’s hard drive to identify that user or information about that user the next time she or he logs onto a website (persistent cookies). FOLP does not use persistent cookies or any other persistent tracking technology. Our website provider, WildApricot, uses cookies to assist with website navigation.

FOLP does not use Google Analytics or any similar technology to track or evaluate your use of our website.

Good computer hygiene and practices include periodically deleting cookies from your phone, tablet, or computer device(s). You may do this by going to your device's privacy/security settings and determining what settings are most appropriate for you.
